Home to Rare Snakes

Two species of nonvenomous gartersnakes live near Oak Creek, where they hunt small fish. The northern Mexican gartersnake occurs here in the lower reaches of Oak Creek. The narrow-headed gartersnake lives upstream in Oak Creek Canyon as one of the last populations of its species in Arizona. It is against the law to harass, handle, hurt, or kill these rare reptiles. Stay on designated trails to avoid harming their streamside habitat.

El Hogar de Culebras Poco Comunes

Dos especies de culebras garter no venenosas viven cerca de Oak Creek, donde ellas cazan peces pequeños. La culebra garter mexicana norteña ("northern Mexican gartersnake" en inglés) se encuentra en la parte baja de Oak Creek. La culebra garter de cabeza angosta ("narrow-headed gartersnake" en inglés) vive río arriba en el Cañón Oak Creek como una de las últimas poblaciones de su especie en Arizona. Es contra la ley molestar, recoger, herir o matar estos réptiles poco comunes. Manténgase en los senderos señalados para no dañar su hábitat ribereño.
